1. The Cooperativa Marinari Fluviala, located at Strada Labirint No. 4, employed 900 women who were engaged in sewing rope nets to be used for camouflage purposes. The project was begun in 1950.
2. The nets were of various sizes: ten by ten meters, two and a half by ten meters, six by six meters, and four by four meters. The netting had square openings which measured four centimeters each way.
3. The salary paid to workers was based on the following scale:
  - a. 7,000 lei for the making of a net, ten by ten meters.
  - b. 3,000 lei for the making of a net, six by six meters.
  - c. 2,800 lei for the making of a net, two and a half by ten meters.
  - d. 1,200 lei for the making of a net, four by four meters.
4.
5. A certain Odobasi was in charge of the project. Occasionally Rumanian Army officers visited the premises and inspected the nets. All types of workers were accepted for this type of work.
